

37 DEAD LISTED IN BOAT EXPLOSION

N. Y. FERRY BLAST TOLL MAY REACH 100, POLICE FEAR

Many Bodies Already Recovered Following East River Explosion, and with Scores Injured and Missing, Death Toll May Increase.

NEW YORK, Sept. 9.—An old wooden steamboat exploded in the East river near Hell Gate today and 164 iron workers on their way to build prison cells on Riker's island were hurled into the air, many dead and virtually all the rest injured.

Twenty-four bodies were brought during the morning to the ferry house where 28 years ago the dead of the Slocum disaster, in which more than 1,000 died, were laid. The contracting company which employed the men reported the number of known dead at the ferry house and in hospitals was 37.

Scores were missing and it was feared by police that the final death list might well reach 100. Among those dead by his associates was Harry Hines of Mattewan, the boat's engineer, who was in the engine room when the boiler exploded and the craft was torn apart.

The boat that blew up was the "Observation," a 92-footer, built 44 years ago and always owned by the Foraythe Transportation company, Alexander Foraythe, the captain, was injured critically in the explosion and his father, George Foraythe, suffered serious injuries.

Until recent years the "Observation" was always an excursion boat, and until it was returned to this type of service every week, it was used as a labor ferry. Caught in a strong tide last winter it turned over and sank but was raised and recommissioned in April under its original government designation.

Investigation was begun today by various agencies including the police, the district attorney's office, and the steamboat inspection service of the department of commerce.

The steamer had already made one trip to the island from 10th street dock and had just started with the second load when the explosion occurred.

The observation, which was built in 1888, was about 25 feet from the pier when people ashore were stunned by a terrific roar. The ferry disappeared in a dense cloud of smoke from which catapulted bodies and fragments of wood and brass.

When the smoke cleared there was nothing left of the boat but debris floating on the city water.

Some Guard Guards

Police, coast guard and commercial boats flocked to the scene and joined in saving the injured and transporting the dead to shore.

Prisoners came to the ferry house and kneeling among the rows of dead, administered last rites to the dying.

Captain Joseph Rogers of the municipal ferry Greenwich Village, gave a graphic account of the explosion.

"I heard a blast and saw the boat blown to smithereens," he said. "When the clouds of smoke and steam had cleared away we could see the passengers struggling in the water."

"We lowered our lifeboats and created chaos among the wreckage. We picked up four bodies and 10 injured persons. Other people were putting out in small boats and they also picked up bodies and the injured."

One workman, Tex Maureaux, was saved by a lifeline. He arrived at the dock just a minute too late to make the ferry and was standing watching it when it exploded. He helped in the rescue of his fellow workers.

Witnesses

All witnesses of the explosion of the observation were taken to nearby police stations for questioning.

Mayor Joseph McKee was told of the explosion at city hall. He said he would not go to the scene, but would depend upon Commissioner Mulrooney for a report.

When the explosion occurred the body of one workman was tossed 30 feet into the air and landed on the roof of a building near the waterfront. Another body was hurled a similar distance to the roof of a building of the New York Edison company.

Today was the workers' regular weekly pay day and many had reported for duty early.

One driver was asked for from the city department of docks and two more from the Brooklyn ferry board. They were immediately dispatched.

The observation was at one time in sight seeing service for carrying tourists around Manhattan island.

Its last inspection by the United States steamboat inspection service was last April and at that time it was marked "O.K." for one year. The inspection included life preservers, boiler and deck.

W. L. Warner Retires As Active Manager of Store After 48 Years

Will Remain as President of Company; Tiffin Men Succeeds Him.

WILLIAM L. WARNER, one of Marion's pioneer merchants, today announced his retirement as general manager of the Warner & Edwards Co., which he helped to found here 48 years ago.

Mr. Warner is relinquishing active direction of the affairs of the store because of failing health, but will remain president of the company.

Coincident with his retirement came the announcement that Nicholas A. Koller, 48, of Tiffin, well known in Ohio department store circles, has been employed as general manager.

In his career of nearly half a century as a Marion merchant, Mr. Warner has been one of the leaders in the business expansion of the city. He not only led the growth of his own company from a small department store to one of Marion's largest, but also was identified with a group of citizens who helped to build Marion from a village into a city.

Came Here in 1884

Mr. Warner, with D. F. Edwards, came to Marion in 1884 and bought a store at 114 South Main street owned by David McWilliams. Their business grew rapidly and in 10 years the need for expansion was felt.

In 1894, the partners erected the present store building on West Center street, and occupied two of the three floors. The Elks lodge and club rooms were located on the third floor. A few years later, the company found it necessary to occupy the third floor, and since that time has enlarged its quarters and has taken additional space in an adjoining building.

The partners incorporated the Warner & Edwards Co. in February, 1900. Mr. Edwards died in December, 1900, and since that time Mr. Warner has had entire charge of the business.

The Warner & Edwards Co. is the oldest department store in Marion.

Owned Own Store

Mr. Warner's successor as general manager has operated his own department store in Tiffin for 37 years, and before that time was associated with department stores in Sioux City, Ia., and Chicago. He has been made a director in the company.

In the announcement of the change, it was stated that Mr. Koller would follow the same policy that resulted in the successful operation of the store for 48 years.

PERMIT ISSUED TO ABANDON C. & M. & B. LINE

State Grants Dismissal Order To Discontinue Traction Service.

An order granting the Columbus, Delaware & Marion Electric Co. permission to abandon the line from Marion to Bucyrus was issued this afternoon by the state public utility commission, according to an Associated Press dispatch from Columbus.

The order, however, sets no date for the abandonment but specifies that the line may be discontinued 10 days after the electric company gives public notice of its intention to discontinue service.

The order further specifies that the company and Marion city officials must reach an agreement concerning the disposition of tracks within the city limits. The order sets up two plans by which the matter can be settled—removal of the rails and poles or sealing of the tracks. When this agreement is reached the company can then serve 10-day notice and suspend service, the order relates.

So far in the negotiations between the city and the company no agreement has been reached. The city has demanded removal of the rails and the company has indicated that it intends to leave the tracks in their present condition.

Reference was made in the utility commission order to the agreement reached by Bucyrus city officials and the company. At the northern end of the line the company has agreed to remove one section of track where there is no paying between the rails and seal the remainder.

WASHBURN STILL IN CRITICAL CONDITION

Has Not Regained Consciousness Since Auto Accident in Kentucky.

The condition of Darius Washburn of near Marion, who was injured Wednesday at Russellville, Ky., remained critical today, relatives here reported. He had not regained consciousness last night from a concussion of the brain.

Washburn and C. V. Hudson of the firm of Bever & Hudson on West Center street, were enroute to Millersburg, Ky., when their car, driven by John Shuff, a prominent Christianian, was involved in an accident with a car driven by Mrs. Washburn, who was seriously injured. Washburn, who was driving when the accident occurred.

Both men are in the Mayville hospital. Mrs. Washburn and her cousin, Dr. and Mrs. J. D. Calhoun, of Millersburg, are in Mayville. Mrs. Washburn left their farm home near Morris Tuesday morning for a visit with Dr. and Mrs. Calhoun and expected to return with the two men today.

Hudson and Washburn left Marion with the expectation of enjoying a hunting trip in Millersburg and of visiting Dr. and Mrs. Calhoun.

Information received by Mrs. Hudson from Mayville led her to believe yesterday that the accident occurred there, but a news account of the accident stated that Russellville was the place of the accident. Mayville is a short distance down the Ohio river from Russellville.

Friend Reports Seeing Robins in Chicago

Raymond Robins, missing prohibition and peace leader, was seen in Chicago yesterday by a friend who knew him during his former residence here, the Daily News said today.

The unnamed friend, reading of the mysterious disappearance of the New Yorker, volunteered the information at the newspaper office that he had passed Robins yesterday afternoon at the corner of State and Adams streets in the loop.

He professed to be certain of the identity.

UPPER SANDUSKY MAN IS CANDIDATE

David Cregar of Upper Sandusky, prosecuting attorney of Wyandot county, yesterday filed his petition at Lima for short term as judge of the court of appeals for the Third district which includes Marion county.

Cregar is the first candidate to come out for the short term in opposition to Keating Wright of Van Wert. Both are Democrats.

The short term on the bench will be from Nov. 4 to Feb. 6.

HOOPER FEARS FOR SAFETY OF DRY WORKER

Colonel Robins, Prohibition Leader, Unheard from After Disappearance.

STUDY BOOTLEG THREATS

Wife Believes He May Have Been Killed by Florida Liquor Runners.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 9.—Anxiety over the whereabouts of Colonel Raymond Robins, prominent prohibitionist whose disappearance was disclosed by his failure to keep a White House appointment Tuesday, was heightened today by President Hoover's concern and fears of violence expressed by Mrs. Robins.

Her statement in Maine that Robins may have been kidnapped or killed by "Florida bootleggers" spurred official inquiries in both New York, where Robins was last seen Saturday, and in Washington. Capital police, however, had no indication of his arrival here.

Dr. Fred B. Smith, friend of Robins, talked with the White House after Mrs. Robins' statement and reported the President was "quite worried."

Laughs at Warnings

Personally, however, Smith said he felt Mrs. Robins "may be over-anxious."

"Colonel Robins is a lone wolf," Smith said. "When he wants to learn something, to dig up something, it occasionally happens that he will go off without telling anyone and he goes it alone until he finds what he wants."

"Threats against his life never faze him. He just laughs at them."

Search Made by Bureau

Attorney General Mitchell said today special investigators from the prohibition bureau had been assigned to the hunt for Robins on the theory that he might have been kidnapped by a gang of bootleggers.

Mitchell reported, however, that nothing had been found that would substantiate such a theory or give a clue to any gang that might be responsible.

Mitchell said so far nothing had been discovered that would draw the justice department's bureau of investigation into the case.

Robins was last seen at the City club in New York Saturday. He had checked out, leaving the Dodge hotel in Washington as a forward address. This hotel, however, said Robins had made no reservation and had not been there. His baggage was located today in the City club check room.

Robins' unexplained absence was first made known at the White House by Walter Newton, one of the President's secretaries.

Wife Expresses Fear

Only a few minutes later, Mrs. Robins telephoned the Associated Press from Southwest Harbor, Maine, where she is visiting her sister, Miss Mary Dreier. She expressed fear that her husband had been killed by Florida bootleggers in connection with bootlegging in New York.

Mrs. Robins cited numerous threatening letters from anonymous sources. As late as Aug. 5 and 7, she said Colonel Robins had been threatened over the telephone by unknown persons who predicted serious consequences if his prohibition efforts were not halted.

In Florida, chief source of the threats mentioned by Mrs. Robins, S. D. Coogler, president of the First National bank at Brooksville, said Robins had been expected to arrive yesterday or today but had not. Robins has a Brooksville home and is chairman of the bank's board.

Three Errors Give K. of P. Nine Victory Over Gasco

LODGEMEN CHALK UP 5-0 WIN; TO PLAY PRESBIES FOR FLAG

All Runs Are Scored in Third Inning; Schwaderer Allows Three Hits.

BY EARL H. McKEOWN
They paid off to full for errors last night at Lincoln park when the championship hopes of the Gasco nine were given a shove into the trash pile by the Knights of Pythias.

When the scorers caught up with themselves after a third inning spree it was determined that the K. of P. (Gasco) won 5 to 0 and the Gasco had been very decidedly eliminated from this world's series race.

Monday night will find the series in the final stage with the unknown Presbyterians meeting the winner of last night's battle. The series may end then with the Presbyterians as champions or it may be necessary to play another game.

The Presbyterians have two chances of winning the title. A defeat would only serve to tie the two nine and most teams find it mighty hard to knock off the Sunday school connection two times in a row. But it can be done.

Three errors in a row started the big inning for the K. of P. nine last night. It seemed as though the ball simply refused to be stopped until the lodgemen had pushed across enough runs to make victory almost certain.

Of course the victory cannot be laid entirely at the doorstep of errors. Four hits in one inning are almost enough to win any game ball game—especially when the opposing team fails to cross the plate.

Edo Schwaderer, on the mound for the victors, left on doubt in the minds of the fans as to just who was the master in the game. He allowed just one man to get a hit until the fifth inning when two Gasco men struggled down to the first sack. But he tightened up right away and with some good support managed to get himself out of danger without difficulty.

Outside of the fatal third, Schwaderer pitched some pretty nice ball for the Gasco. He allowed a total of nine hits.

SEVEN TEAMS STILL HAVE CHANCE TO WIN NATIONAL LOOP RACE

Cubs Gain Half Game; Yanks Need Four Wins To Clinch Pennant.

By The Associated Press
Back in the long lean years, those four seasons from 1927 through 1930, when the National league champions couldn't win a game in the great October classic, the explanation often was advanced that the close races in the senior circuit took too much out of the winners and left them too weary for the American leagues.

The same contrast comes up again this year as the National league race goes down the home stretch with seven teams still mathematically in the running while only three are left in the American, two of them with only the slimmest kind of a chance to overtake the New York Yankees.

After checking in with a 14-11-1 record and a seven inning tie in a long duel with Detroit yesterday, the Yankees reached the point where they need only four victories for themselves, four defeats for Philadelphia and Washington or any combination within that figure to clinch the pennant. At the same time the Chicago Cubs, leading Pittsburgh by 1 1/2 games with 18 to go, have to work on a 22 game basis to make it a certainty.

Yesterday, the Yanks had to go five extra innings in the first game to defeat the Tigers 6 to 4, and darkness stopped them in the seventh inning of the second, with the score tied at seven-all.

The Athletics lost a precious game to Cleveland by a 2 to 1 count. Washington turned back St. Louis 3 to 1, and kept pace with the Yanks.

Ted Lyons, Chicago veteran, pitched a fine 10-inning game and scored the winning run himself for a 4-3 victory over Boston.

A divided double header with Boston added a half game to the Cubs' lead as Pittsburgh took another on the chip from Brooklyn. Chicago won 4-1 in the opener. In the nightcap a homer by Berger led to a 3-2 triumph for Boston.

Pittsburgh couldn't approach Brooklyn's hitting feats and was buried under a 12 to 2 score.

A circuit drive by Don Hurrst gave the Phillies a 3 to 0 victory over the Cardinals in the only other National league game.

Plummer and Davis Signed for Feature Mat Battle

John Plummer, the gigantic Iowa farmer matman who two weeks ago defeated Joe Hackenschmidt, will be given something a great deal tougher to shoot at here next Monday night when he will meet Carl Davis, young Columbus heavyweight in a two bout out of three falls, two hour limit engagement.

Plummer made a great impression on local mat fans with his speed and versatility against Hackenschmidt. Spotting Hackenschmidt a long edge in experience and weight the young Iowa outsped the veteran Pole and polished him off in a workmanlike manner.

The signing of Davis to meet the young Iowa here secretly pleased Plummer for John has been gunning for the Columbus since their previous meeting in Columbus where Plummer feels that he was the victim of a bit of home town officiating.

John said as much at the time but Columbus promoters failed to give heed and the Iowa has been seeking a shot at Davis somewhere outside of Carl's home town ever since.

"I feel that if I am given a square break in the officiating I can take Davis just as I took the big Pole here last week and I don't know of another town in which I would rather do it than right here in Marion where I have certainly been accorded the best of treatment and where I feel sure I'll get all that is coming to me in the way of a square deal." That was Plummer's statement as he signed for the match.

Davis needs no introduction to local fans for he has appeared here many times and has lost only a single important tilt here, that to Joe Savoldi.

The semi-final of Monday's program will see another Iowa, Cliff Kauffman, younger brother of Melchamaker Clete Kauffman in action against Earl Hassen, former U. S. navy mat luminary.

It will be Kauffman's second start here he having defeated the rough Paddy Nolan in his debut here. The match is scheduled for two out of three falls with a 45 minute time limit.

Cliff is under the supervision of his older brother Clete and he has been directing Cliff's gym work. The match, depending upon weather conditions, will be held either at the Shovel gym or the open air arena.

TITLE OF CALEDONIA AT STAKE SUNDAY

The championship of Caledonia will be at stake Sunday afternoon when the two representative teams will clash at 2 o'clock. The village's entry in the Heart of Ohio league will take on the Indians. The Indian team is made up entirely from Caledonia players while the league team has selected ball teams from the surrounding community.

Huffman will hurt for the Indians and Burgraff for the league team.

ATLANTIC TOWNS HIT BY 90-MILE WINDS

Shipping Stays in Harbors; Loss of Life Feared on Island.

By The Associated Press
The white light between two red warning of heavy gales at sea turned brightly through the night along a jetty two miles long from Storm, Nantucket, to Eastport, Nantucket, as the winds howled across the island. The winds were born of a tropical disturbance whose center struck the northern portion of the island on Monday. Commencing with a heavy rain, the winds were strong and gusty, blowing from the north and west. Coastal communities suffered many thousands of dollars damage as winds of lesser velocity beat along the eastern shore line before passing out to sea.

Commencing with a heavy rain, the winds were strong and gusty, blowing from the north and west. Coastal communities suffered many thousands of dollars damage as winds of lesser velocity beat along the eastern shore line before passing out to sea.

A government tender, carrying doctors, nurses and medical supplies, left Nantucket, Bahamas last night for the island community.

The tropical disturbance moved northeastward through the Atlantic after tearing across the Bahamas at an 80-mile clip and was centered last night about 450 miles east of Washington and 200 miles south of Nantucket.

Today the gale was subsiding along the Massachusetts coast, and was passing swiftly out to sea.

It was feared that Ruth might have appendicitis, and that he might not be able to win the world series for the Yankees.

IN SPAIN, where Ignatius Loyola suddenly becoming deeply religious, started the order of Jesuits long ago, the government has expelled the Jesuits, suppressed their order and confiscated their property. Most of the property being in securities, some seventy million dollars' worth is supposed to have escaped the confiscation. But all Jesuit real estate, valued at some thirty millions, is taken by the Spanish government to be devoted to "public welfare." The confiscation of real property includes even Loyola's ancient castle, carefully preserved by the Jesuits.

REV. WOOD SPEAKS AT CLUB MEETING

Minister Tells Kiwanians of Impressions Gathered at Historic Spots.

"Our Country, Its Cost" was the subject of an address by Rev. Lawrence A. Wood of Trinity Baptist church, before a luncheon meeting of the Kiwanis club yesterday at Hotel Marion. Rev. Wood returned recently from a vacation trip to Gettysburg, Valley Forge, Philadelphia, Boston and places of patriotic interest. He drew patriotic applications from the scenes he visited, using them as the basis for his talk yesterday.

He spoke of the patriotic emotion that comes with visiting the scene of the making of the first flag, and of standing on the fields of Valley Forge.

"The prayer of us all is that war may never come again," he said. "To the prevention of another war we give our best efforts, but we need always to remember that the cost of our great American republic was war. It was born in war. It was preserved by war. And in like manner, it may be our duty some day to defend it by war."

"Our army and navy, military companies and officers training camps are not for promoting war, but to make it possible for men to defend themselves and preserve our nation, if again our national liberty should be endangered."

OHIO CHEST FUNDS NEED 5 MILLIONS

State-Wide Survey of Conditions Planned by Group.

By The Associated Press
COLUMBUS, O., Sept. 9.—Community chests in Ohio will need approximately $5,000,000 to carry on poor relief work during the remainder of 1932.

This estimate was made by Community Fund workers at a meeting here yesterday and it was decided to conduct a state-wide survey of conditions in the various counties.

Data thus obtained will be submitted to Governor George White, probably next week. From them he will determine what recommendations he will make to the Reconstruction Finance Corp. for relief in Ohio.

The data also may be presented to the special session of the legislature to be called by the governor this month.

Bulkley said that in a recent address he had called on his opponent "to state whether he is for or against it (the legalization of beer) or wishes to run away from the issue."

"He has now made a statement pretending to answer my inquiry by saying that he issued a declaration of candidacy in which he said the Volstead act should be modified and nothing more. It did not say when it should be modified or in what respect."

Average Person Walks 18,000 Steps a Day, Survey Reveals

By International News Service
BERKELEY, Cal., — "People do not realize how much they use their feet yet no part of the body is more commonly abused. Statistics prove that nine out of every ten persons have some form of foot trouble, nearly all of which could have been avoided."

These statements were made here recently by Ethelwyn Dodson, extension specialist in clothing of the University of California, upon completion of a survey of foot trouble and its causes.

"By using pedometers a survey was made to determine the distance traveled by men and women in various stations in life," Miss Dodson declared.

A farmer behind a plow, according to the survey, walks an average of 25 1/2 miles a day. A housekeeper, without leaving home, in one year walked a distance equal to the mileage from San Francisco to Boston. A school girl, combining walking, running and playing, traveled 1 1/2 miles a day while a boy averaged 15 miles.

The average distance walked in one day was found to be 18,000 steps or approximately eight miles. "Ill shaped shoes and short shoes," according to Miss Dodson, "are responsible for most foot troubles. Bedroom slippers cause much trouble if worn for any purpose except for which they are made."

Never has any standard toilet soap been priced so low

Ounce for ounce...quality for quality...KIRK'S offers the greatest value in any bath and toilet soap

It's 100% Pure Coco Castile!

Men who have been in the soap business all their lives say that never in their memory have they seen such a value. Think of it—a big-lathering soap cake half again larger than any of the other three leading toilet soaps...and now many more cakes for the same money!

Why take chances with offensive body odor when here is a marvelous bath and toilet soap for only a few pennies a cake—a soap that makes even the hardest, coldest water...that leaves skin and body as fresh and clean-smelling as a woodland brook!

Kirk's Coco Castile is 100% pure coconut oil soap. That's why it's so quick and efficient in correcting body odor. It gives a fuller, more penetrating lather than ordinary soaps, goes deep into the pores, removes every trace of dirt, oily film, then rinses off in a flash. Best of all, it's economical; leaves no tedious hospital smell.

Try it—for hands, for bath, for a wonderful shampoo. You'll be amazed at the difference. Go to your nearest dealer today...try for the entire family...and save as you never saved before!

CHAPTER FIFTEEN

"It's frightfully late," Leonard drank half the contents of his tumbler at a gulp. Then he set down the glass sharply. "Hospitable creature—aren't you?"

"It's too late to be hospitable," Robert. "You oughtn't to have come in."

"Rubbish!" She looked rather wearily over her shoulder.

"I have to be careful when I'm here alone—doubly careful just now. It's been touch and go over this business. She dropped the curtain and turned round. I've squared Janet Tettersley."

"She seemed to be all over you."

"I confided in her," she said in a dry, toneless voice. "She was dying of curiosity of course, so I told her that when I found out by accident that Jerry was in love with this girl I didn't feel that I could stand in their way. She simply lapped it up."

"She came up to one of the big chairs and leaned against it."

"What about Jane Manning Temple?"

"I got off the same piece to her. She said I was a saint."

"Well, that's all right," said Leonard. "I noticed she made a bee line for old James Malloy as soon as you left her and between them they'll do all the broadcasting that's necessary."

"All at once he turned to the table and put down the empty glass."

"I suppose," he said in a considering voice, "I suppose you couldn't work off that piece on Jerry could you?"

Rosamund stared at him.

"Jerry is married this girl to save the cash. He wasn't in love with her and he isn't in love with her. He blew a cloud of smoke."

"Now you're being high falutin'."

"What's wrong with your making him believe?" Her voice mocked him.

"Hold on—I'm getting there. Suppose the girl had told you he was in love with her—that they were in love with each other."

"What are you getting at?"

"It would let you out—noble sacrifice broken heart, and all that. And it would turn him against the girl if he believed he'd been tricked into marrying her."

"It," said Rosamund. "Well he might. These things stick, and when a man's been let down by one woman he's generally ready to believe the worst about the next one. You think it over. But don't take too long about it. What's wanted at the present moment is a separation has been arranged between Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Weare, to take effect immediately. We don't want any little Weare you know. That would put the kibosh on the whole affair."

Rosamund turned sombre eyes upon him. The blue seemed to have gone out of them, leaving them bleak and grey.

"I wish to heaven I'd gone through with it and married him."

"Do you?" said Robert Leonard. "Yes I do," she said. "What's the good of pretending? We've muffed it, and were in the soup. You know it as well as I do."

Robert Leonard came deliberately over to her and put heavy hands on her shoulders.

"That's enough about that," he said roughly.

"That's for me to say."

"No it isn't. You'll do what you're told."

He slid one hand behind her head tilted up her face and kissed her. She did not cry out but he felt her stiffen. Her lips were hard and cold against his. He released her and stood back.

"Now listen to me," he said. "Jerry and this girl haven't been living together but she's going to wear with him tomorrow—well by now it's today. I'm going down too. You can stay here if you like."

"The Tettersleys asked me down. He seemed to consider that. Quite a good plan. We had better not be seen together again for the present."

Rosamund put her hand to her head. She pushed back the heavy gold of her hair and let her hand drop into her lap again. Then she said without looking at him:

"What are you going to do?"

"Mind my own business."

"She stood up at that."

"I think it's my business too."

"She went to the table under the lamp and jerking open a drawer pulled from it a sheet of paper."

"Ellis," she said. "Today's little lot. Would you like to have a look at them?"

"No thanks—I've plenty of my own."

"Exactly. And what are we going to do about it?" I've got this house till the end of August. I've been paying the rent in advance on the first of the month. I'm overdrawn at the bank. And the minute the notice of Jerry's marriage is in the papers everyone I've ever dealt with sits down and sends me in a bill. And Jerry stings me a few dimes."

"Well I haven't got them."

"What are we going to do?"

"You are going to stay with Janet Tettersley—and I am going down to Croyston," said Robert Leonard.

"Heart of a Wife"

BY ADELE GARRISON

Mary's Historic Work Wonders with "Hen-ery" and "Nettie" and Soon They Are on Their Way in the Wake of the Rescue Party.

It seemed an hour before the mountain farmer and his wife reached the front door of their home. Although my wrist watch told me that it was but little over three minutes yet so deliberate had been their movements in closing the upper window from which they had been talking to us, and coming down the stairs, that we had feared a much longer delay. We knew, all three of us, that seconds counted in this race to reach our men before they arrived at the place scheduled for the attempt to rescue the girls but we also knew, intuitively, that it would be impossible to hurry Hen-ery and Nettie. They evidently had but one fact firmly fixed in their heads—that they were to give out no information concerning the men whom Dr. Barnes had sent to them.

Mary Wm. Talk

Lee Chow, elegant valetan that he was, knew better than Mary or I, the virtues of patience, but I surmised that he was straining at the leash when he spoke to Mary as the man and woman drew the window down, and put themselves beyond tattle.

"Time is essence of success," he said. "Please remember that when dealing with them."

"Patience my forgetting!" Mary murmured rebelliously, but so low a tone that only I caught the words, and Lee Chow went on. "You plainly are the only person who can make them talk. Mrs.

Graham and I will speak eloquently by silence.

My pulses quickened in triumph for Mary. Whether intentionally or not she had given Lee Chow his comeuppance for his refusal to let her come with us a refusal only negated by my ultimatum that if she did not go I also would stay behind.

"Sh! they are coming!" Mary warned, and the next second the front door swung open, and Hen-ery, standing in the doorway, almost filled it. His wife could not be seen behind him, but we could hear her admonishing him not to go one step outside.

"You, girl," he said addressing Mary, "come up here and hand me that letter, then you go back and stand where you were until I go inside and read it. The other two of you stand still where you are."

Mary advanced promptly with the letter, and despite our tension, I could not help a smile at the contrast between the slight dauntless figure of Mary, and the huge patently perturbed bulk of Hen-ery. As Mary handed him the letter she spoke, throwing all her powers of histrionism into her voice and face.

"Oh! won't you hurry?" she pleaded. "You must know what depends upon tonight's work. His or death for two people, perhaps more. And our not getting there may—"

She broke into sobs whether stimulated or not, I could not tell but that they were successful we knew when Nettie caught at her husband's arm as he started inside with the note.

"If you don't hurry," she said menacingly, "I'll tell her myself."

"I'll be right back," he promised and indeed, it was less than a minute before he appeared again on the threshold, this time all broad smiles.

"It's all right," he announced. "I know Mrs. Barnes' handwritin', and anything she or Doc Barnes says, goes around here."

"Thank you," Mary said sweetly. "Please tell us quickly which way they went."

"I'd better than tell you," Hen-ery said grandiosely. "I'll show you. Bring the lantern, Nettie!"

I had a sudden dimmed vision of a lantern holding up and down, showing our progress plainly to any possible watchers for the desperado, stationed at some high spot commanding a view of the valley, but Lee Chow intervened quickly.

"Do not trouble," he said. "We have darkness."

"But I know to come back again," Mary argued.

"I'll give you a guide," he said. "Lee Chow's wife and I will lead you. We do not know the way, I say of you."

"Our darkness," said I, "is directed with lanterns out. You don't want that done."

"Yes, that is what you want? It is."

"But as you can see, Mrs. Barnes' handwritin' is all right. From Mrs. Barnes' handwritin' we can see that they went that way."

MRS. DREAR AND MRS. CHEER

Mrs. Drear: I don't mind cooking, but washing dishes gets me down. I can hardly enjoy a meal for thinking about messy plates and greasy pots and pans.

Mrs. Cheer: I don't let myself think about it. Dish-washing is something that has to be done, like paying bills, and going to the doctor. So I take the easiest way. I use Oxydol and get it over in a jiffy.

● Oxydol is the best cure for those Dishpan Blues, and is as easy on hands as can be. Half again as much work as other soaps, it cuts grease like lightning, whisks away all the dirt, gets you out of the kitchen in short order. And Oxydol is great in the washbasin or washing machine—it doesn't ball up—every particle dissolves instantly into suds soapy suds. That's why it's so economical. And what a time and work saver too!
